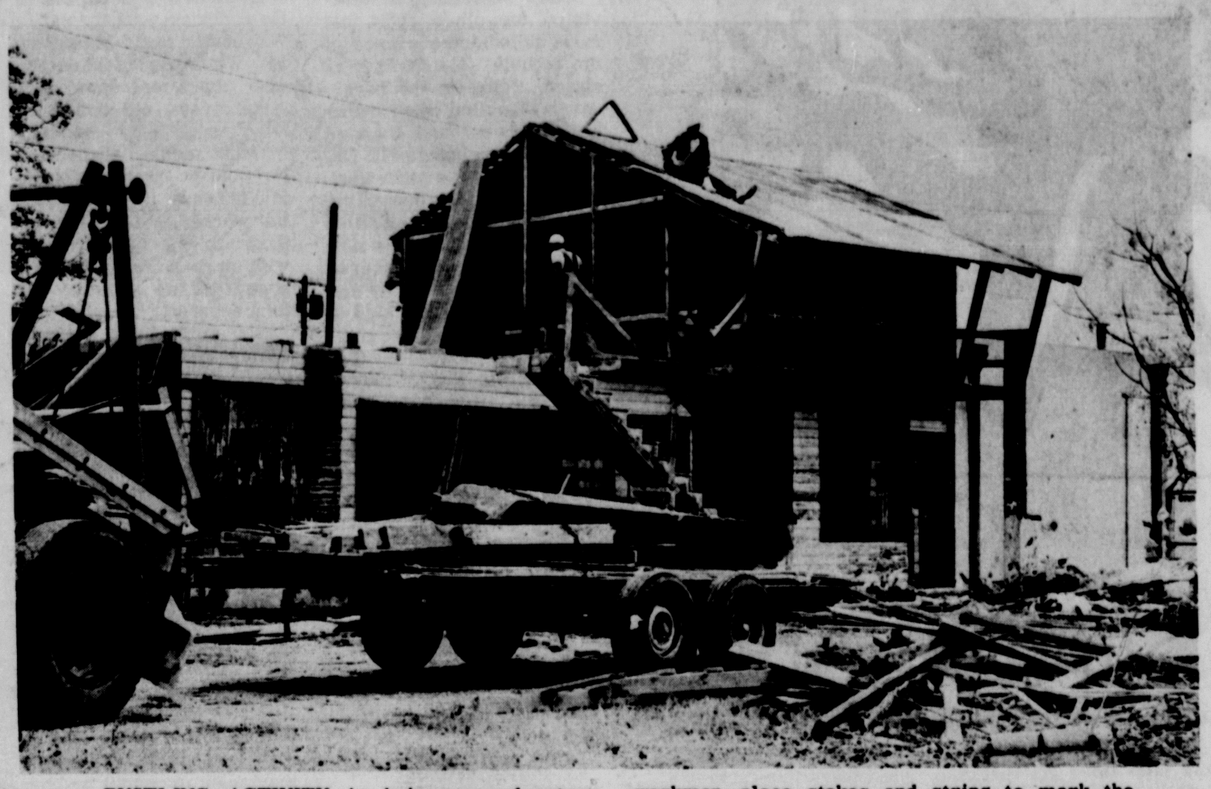
Vol. 117 No. 75 | Cameron, Milam County, Texas, Thursday, November 25, 1976 | 12 Pages Today



BUSTLING ACTIVITY is being seen downtown as one building goes up and another comes down. Above, the old William Carey Lumber Co. buildings are being dismantled after being abandoned for a number of years. The stie will offer an ideal location for a downtown business. At right, workmen place stakes and string to mark the foundation site for the county youth exposition building, long planned by interested persons in the county who made the dream come true with a successful fund drive.

DEEPER CONCERNS. . .

About 300 held a brief service Monday at the Kennedy Memorial opposite the brick building from which Lee Harvey Oswald is said to have shot John F. Kennedy.

Monday was the 13th anniversary of that assassination in Dallas.

Investigation is continuing into the circumstances of Kennedy's death. Official records are being subpoenaed in Washington by a Senate select Committee on assassinations of Kennedy and Martin Luther King.

An "eternal flame" marks the 35th President's grave in Arlington National Cemetery overlooking Washington, where the Warren Commission Report is reopened and apparently finding addenda back in Cuba.

Fidel Castro is said to have offered cooperation in establishing material facts in the Kennedy death. It finds elements in the Chicago Mafia, Fidelistas and Cubans n Miami and smacks of a "hit" on the scale of Caesar's stabbing in the Roman Senate.

The Kennedy family sees nothing to be gained beyond the Warren Commission. A son, one of two shot down, will not be restored. But history is to be served, and what might be pleasing to the second oldest of old Joe Kennedy, truth of what Banana Republic Communism did to son John, whose 1961 handling of the Cuban Invasion debacle may have triggered JFK's own death.

It is being said that Jimmy Carter's election restores the "New Frontier" movement, carries forward "the torch which was passed" to a new generation. Beyond intellectual comparisons, the difference between the two carve out a chasm.

Ted Kennedy, the surviving son, is loyal to a Democrat's election, but hardly estatic over the emergence of a Georgian Southern Baptist. It's a job Ted would have sought if Robert too hadn't been a target of insanity.

The Kennedys are the stuff of legend and historical novel, such as the current series "Captains and the Kings" ending this week on prime-time TV. A "first Irish Catholic president" is primed for election by an immigrant-multi-millionaire a generation before John Kennedy actually captured control of the Democratic Party and the narrow election over Richard Nixon.

Everybody, it seems, thinks the Kennedys are Americana, contemporary, and tragedian. Dallas Mayor Bob Folsom last week announced no memorial services would be held this year in Dallas, but hundreds of calls asking for another this November 22 altered that decision.

A number of major careers in communications and politics, none more than Lyndon Johnson's ricocheted skyward with those bullets. Network television never had a finer hour than those four days in November, 1963.

Investigative reporting, which peaked in the Watergate disclosures, accelerated with independent inquiries by the dozen into the Kennedy Assassination.

"Who else fired those shots?" became "who else joined the White House coverup?"

Walter Cronkite, who unabashedly broke into tears in announcing JFK's death on TV, calls it the "greatest story" of the century. It must be, because comparisons and inquires repeat and repeat.

Older people used to reflect on where they were when word came that the Japanese had bombed Pearl Harbor. It is almost traditional in younger people to remember where they were when commentators like Cronkite announced the death, even though a school generation has grown up during those 13 years.

Moralists agonize over the drift of institutional influence and mark the Chappaquidick tragedy and Kennedy peccadillos as signs of decay. But the public mind retains the legend and something of "Camelot" in the public death of youth and hope in high office.

Watergate somehow redirects interest, if not morbid curiosity into Kennedy's "Thousand Days," a compelling, inconclusive romance of power, wit, and intellect somebody actually lived for a world to see ended, in all irony, an inconclusive tragedy.

Cameron, Temple Coca-Cola Firms Announce Merge

A merger of the Cameron and La Grange Coca-Cola Bottling Companies with the Temple Coca-Cola Bottling Company has been announced by Gene F. Blake, president of the local bottling company.

Blake will remain in full capacity as president until Dec. 31, then will be with the Temple firm on a public relations basis, he said. The local staff will remain practically the same, with a few employes transferring to Temple.

Coca-Cola was first bottled in Cameron in 1904, and the company was purchased by the Blake family in 1938. Some years later the local plant was consolidated with the Madisonville Coca-Cola plant and in 1953 the La Grange plant was merged with Cameron.

As a result of the new merger, the Temple Coca-Cola Bottling Company will serve an eight-county area in Central Texas.

Trooper Wardlaw said Morrison was alone in the car when the accident occurred. Wardlaw said the car was completely demolished.

Yule Season Opening

New Decorations Going Up On Downtown Mall

All the ingredients for a merry yule season are being assembled and planned in Cameron, as new Christmas decorations go up on the mall and entries sign up for the annual Christmas parade.

The new decorations will be erected Saturday, Nov. 27 by the local National Guard unit supervised by Floyd Porter. Decorations on the mall will be entirely different this year, according to the area Chamber of Commerce.

Four 12-foot Christmas trees and four animated snowmen will surround a new "Santa Area." New three-foot lanterns will hang from each lamp post on the mall.

The decorations are purchased by the city and the Chamber is responsible for selecting, installing, and storing the decorations each year.

Plans call for Santa to visit with children on Saturday., Dec. 11 and 18 with hours to be announced.

Floats, bands, and clowns will highlight the Christmas parade set for December 4 at 10 a.m. A color guard from the 924th Tactical Airlift Group of the U. S. Air Force Reserve from Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin will lead the parade.

The young women in the color guard will join the "Country Critters" on the mall when they appear in concert following the parade.

Other units in the parade include floats from the Arts & Service League, the First Presbyterian Church, Bethel AME Church, Fleur de lis Garden Club, and Rockdale Cub Scout Den 3, Pack 789. The Yoe High Band and the O. J. Thomas Junior High Band will march and appearing again this year are the All-Star Twirlers from Temple. A special feature of the parade will be a local clown group who will be handing out balloons along the parade route.

Anyone wishing to enter a unit in the parade should contact the Chamber of Commerce office at 697-2541 by December 1. The parade will begin at the corner of Crockett and Main, and follow the usual parade route downtown.

MARC Center Supported By United Way Funds

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of stories on United Way agencies that will be helped by the fund drive now underway in Cameron. Goal for this year's drive is $10,000.

The Milam Association for Retarded Citizens (MARC) is a new agency on Cameron's United Way list this year, and is located in Rockdale. The organization has been active for about ten years, serving handicapped children and adults throughout Milam County.

The MARC van operates throughout the county, picking up clients and bringing them to the center for therapy in the form of activities specially planned for their abilities. The van has stops in Cameron, Milano, Gause, Minerva and Thorndale each day.

Marcia Sulak, a therapist technical assistant at the center, said the center is now serving a total of from 20 to 25 adults and children. The children who are able to attend public schools are brought to the center by school buses after school is out and take part in the planned activities.

The clients earn spending money by arts and crafts projects that are sold at Christmas time, Miss Sulak said. Lunch is brought each day by those who spend the day and refreshments are served twice a day, the money coming from sale of arts and crafts.

The center is funded entirely by United Way contributions, and is an outreach center from the Brenham State School. The staff attends in-service training once a month at the Brenham facility and is also now working on earning Red Cross first aid cards.

The enrichment program offers activities for clients that normal people take for granted, such as field trips, shopping in nearby cities, picnics, and weekly bowling at Cameron Lanes sponsored by the Knights of Columbus in Cameron.

The summer program has as many as 45 children and adults enrolled, and they enjoy swimming at the Rockdale city pool courtesy of the city, arts and crafts, and learning self help skills.

The present building housing MARC was the former Steelworkers Union Hall which was donated to the center when the union built a new hall. A grant from Alcoa Foundation helped with funds to removate the building and time and labor was donated by the Rockdale Lions Club.

The building will also house a workshop, being built by the boys, where they can learn wood-working and other hand skills.

Wynelle McWilliams is director for the center, and the staff includes Clara Brooks, Beatrice Juarez, Craig Sulak, Marcia Sulak, and part-time worker Sue McDaniel.

Miss Sulak asked that anyone knowing of a person who may be eligible to attend the center should contact them at 2618 Grace St., Rockdale, or call 512-446-2190.

Man Hanged In Freak Accident

A Calvert man was accidentally hanged in a freak accident Monday at the Calvert Co-op Gin Co. He was identified as Bobby Joe Williams, described as in his 20s.

Williams, a gin employe, was reportedly loading cotton burrs at the gin's burr house and had climbed up to the top of a trap door that let the burrs in. He apparently became entangled in the trap door and was hung by the neck.

A co-worker found Williams and the death was pronounced accidental by Justice of the Peace J. C. Woods.

She said plans are to place some of the exhibits in the windows of downtown businesses.

The Junior Historians expressed appreciation to all those who helped maked the history fair a success.

'Past Is Prologue'...

We are among those who appreciate the student effort in the CISD History Fair at Cameron Armory at mid-week.

There was a lot of "Stuff" there, but there was also some rich ideas and fresh views of Milam Area history relating the past to the future.

History indeed is not just a look back. It is perhaps a 180-degree glance in a life spectrum which is 360 degrees, whether or not we, the young and old, like it.

"The Past Is Prologue" says the legend on a statue in front of the National Archives in Washington, where all the records and pictures of this country are stored, either in fact or on microfilm.

But it takes a constant renewal and projection into the future to keep a "sense of history." Civilizations that disappear, or go fallow, or into limbo, have only a past. And past in this sense is dead.

These young people, these students are quite alive and observant and clever gatherers of the artifacts and facts of this area's history.

They do it as part of the learning process. But it is for the future, and non-metro Cen-Texans almost forgot that. In fact, 30 communities disappeared in Milam County because they liked what they were to the point they had found no need for a future.

This is living history, obviously aware of its relationship to the future.

'Critters' At The 'Gateway'...

Country - western is not our particular bag, though it's "big money" and more popular than almost other musical idiom these days.

Yet, we see the attraction for Cameron with the talents of the Air Force's "Country Critters" following the Christmas Day parade in December.

It takes talent to sing and play anything well. We don't have to like it for it to be "good", and it is particularly apropos a town whose slogan is bumper-stickered around Central Texas as the "Gateway to Country Sunshine."

And if you see a good symphony orchestra driving through, we'll more than be happy to plug that too.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

VOTER POSTCARD REGISTRATION

Sen. Harry Byrd Jr. (Va.) "... In a recent editorial the Richmond Times-Dispatch reveiwed the recently passed post card voter registration bill and concluded:

'The post card registration bill is another example of unnecessary Federal intervention into what is basically a State prerogative.'

"There being no objection, the editorial was ordered to be printed in the Record." (The condensed editorial follows):

Postcard Registration

There was both good and bad in the House of Representatives' recent action on the postcard voter registration bill.

The good was that the House did amend the measure to eliminate the requirement that the Postal Service mail voter registration postcard forms to every household in the United States at least once every two years. The estimated cost of the program as originally conceived; as much as $500 million every two years.

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter (who allegedly wants to hold down government expenditures) visited Capitol Hill just prior to House action on the bill not only to lobby for the measure but also to urge that it be passed quickly so that the pan could be put into effect in time for the November 2 election.

But the House handed Mr. Carter his first legislative defeat by dropping the key provision for Postal Service mailing of the cards. Instead, under the amendment adopted, the cards would be made available at post offices and other public buildings, as well as being given out in bulk to groups which requested them.

While the amendment improves the bill, the measure is still a totally unjustified one that would add a federal bureaucracy by creating a new Voter Registration Administration only for federal elections, but the enormous burden placed on local registrars in maintaining separate federal and state lists would virtually force adoption of the system for state elections.

Postcard registration could not become law unless the Senate also passed the bill. We hope it doesn't get through that body. If it does, and if President Ford is in office at the time, it almost certainly will be vetoed."

****

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Postcard registration may be a way to overcome voter apathy; just maybe.

Texas Oil Supplies Are Decreasing

Texas oil supplies are decreasing, and the Railroad Commission is sending out the alarm.

The commission last week, for the first time in more than four years, reduced the statewide production allowable — from 100 per cent to 99 per cent.

Although the cut is small, it is designed to get big results by gaining Washington's attention.

About 40 per cent of U.S. crude oil is produced in Texas.

In 1975, the total for the state came to 1.2 billion barrels, but outflow is off 26 million barrels in 1976.

"Whether this will be good, bad or indifferent, I think it's time that the people in Washington begin to realize that the capacity of Texas to continue to produce crude oil and natural gas with the declining incentives to do so is having a diminishing effect upon our natural resources in Texas," said Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon.

Commissioner Mack Wallace said new steps must be taken to alert the nation to "the very severe problem that continuously approaches us without any activity on the part of the congress to alleviate the problem."

The change in the allowable will lower estimated crude oil production only about 7,500 barrels a day — to 3,124,500 barrels.

Commissioners stated the production trim would save oil for possible emergency use.

The East Texas Field again was restricted to 86 per cent production.

Primary Boosted

Legislation to revive and extend an altered version of a presidential preference primary in Texas has been prefiled in the House of Representatives.

The bill by Reps. Sarah Weddington of Austin, Luther Jones of El Paso and Lance Lalor of Houston would establish a proportional primary system. Delegates would be selected by state political party conventions in proportion to the state wide popular vote (for candidates receiving more than six per cent of the total).

State Democratic Executive Committee is expected to come up with its own version of primary legislation after a special committee study.

Bell Rests Case

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company rested its case before Texas Public Utility Commission for a $298.3 million hike in its Texas rates.

The P.U.C. staff, meanwhile, came up with its own alternative proposal which would give Bell about a sixth of what it asked — $49.76 million.

Bell is continuing to cross-examine opposition witnesses. After concluding summaries, the commission is expected to reach a decision — possibly by mid-December.

Cities Get $13.2 Millions

The 640 Texas cities levying sales taxes got checks totalling $13.2 million as their November rebate on collections.

A total of $252.2 million has been received by the cities to date this year. This represents a 13 per cent increase, or about $28.5 million over 1975.

November rebate checks ranged from $501 for Springtown to more than $2.5 million for Houston.

Courts Speak

Texas Supreme Court held constitutional a new state law regulating mobile home sale and manufacture and requiring performance bonds.

The high court decided a San Antonio mother delayed too long a lawsuit for $1 million in damages due to alleged brain damage suffered by her infant daughter in an operation.

Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a marijuana conviction on grounds Houston police had no right to stop the driver of a car because it had out-of-county license tags and was moving slowly.

The same court reversed a 99-year prison sentence of an Ector County woman for heroin possession due to improper argument to the jury by the prosecutor.

AG Opinions

Atty. Gen. John Hill emphasized the 55 miles per hour Texas highway speed limit is constitutional and can be validly enforced.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

City election records must be made public immediately.

Examination reports of the Department of Banking concerning loans made to individuals are exempted from public disclosure.

The Board of Nursing Examiners is authorized to accredit specialty programs in nursing offered by colleges and universities.

The Department of Labor and Standards is not authorized to conduct "shop survey" of boiler manufacturers and to charge a fee for the checks.

Feedlot owners or operators who fatten cattle for others are not covered by the Texas Commercial Feed Control Act of 1957 requiring registration of brands and labeling of containers.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to several articles I've read recently, England is in serious economic trouble, and the experts don't seem to know what to do about it.

I saw something on television the other night that may indicate the source of the trouble. The Queen was shown riding in the royal carriage pulled by prancing white horses, and I got to study the carriage itself. Did you know it's the same carriage England has been using for generations? The British haven't come out with a new model in maybe 200 years. What sort of prosperity can you create with that kind of slow-down in carriage production?

You let U. S. car manufacturers fail just one year to come out with a new model and the economic index would nose-dive. What would happen if they waited 200 years?

Also, there's another blind spot I've noticed in the British notion of what prosperity is based on. For example, one of the key signs of how the U. S. economy is doing is the rate of new housing starts. Do you know what the rate of new castle starts in England is? Why, most of the castles over there are upwards of 1,000 years old and there hasn't been a new one built in most men's recollection. No wonder the castle building industry is blighted and its workers idle. You put these things together along with some more I don't know about and no economy can long endure.

You won't catch the U. S. falling into that situation. New models every years, that's the key to success, but we don't just stop there, we don't overlook any possibilities for more jobs. For example, even before industry comes out with a new appliance, it already has trained other people how to repair it.

Actually we've slipped up in only one industry. That's the plumbing industry. It's been asleep. Think how much business could be generated if the plumbing industry was as smart as the car industry and persuaded people they ought to change bathtub models every year. Why hasn't it been asking: "Do you want your guests to see you're still using year-before-last's bathtub. Don't you know white is out this year and green is in?" You want the U. S. to go the way of England?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
John C. White, Commissioner

Turkey Time . . . Wheat Pasture Prospects . . . Lamb Feeding . . . Milk Production Increases.

As you enjoy your Thanksgiving turkey this holiday time, consider how much that old bird has changed. Time was when turkey was tough and not too tasty.

The turkey you eat now is delicious, nutritious, and high in protein. It's not only good for you, but it tastes good, too. All this improvement did not come by accident.

Turkey rations are scientifically blended to produce a top quality meat. The turkey is bred to specifications which result in a meatier bird.

Because of these changes, turkey is a year-round meat that can be enjoyed any time. But Thanksgiving time is traditionally turkey time, and is an especially good buy during the holiday season.

Texas ranks fourth in the nation in production of turkeys. The leading county in Texas is McLennan, which produced 10 per cent of the state's turkeys last year.

Other counties in the top ten are Mason, Bell, Gonzales, Gillespie, Hill, Leon, Brown, San Saba, and DeWitt.

WHEAT PASTURE PROSPECTS in Texas in the Panhandle and Low Plains are below the status of a year ago. About 25 per cent of the seeded acreage had sufficient growth to pasture compared with 50 per cent two years ago. Available forage was rated generally fair to poor with less than ten per cent actually being pastured.

Range and pasture feed conditions in the state range from very poor and in some cases, extreme drouth, to estimates of good to excellent. Nationwide, range feed condition was set at 66 per cent, which is 11 points under a year ago.

SHEEP FEEDERS in the state with a capacity of 2,000 head or more had 70,000 sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter as of Nov. 1, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

This is 31 per cent below the same month a year ago, but is three per cent above last month. Placements during October totaled 33,000 head.

Current intentions to market include 22,000 this month, 20,000 in December and 14,000 during January.

December and January intentions are incomplete at this time because additional lambs could be placed on feed and marketed during these months.

OCTOBER MILK PRODUCTION in Texas is estimated at 275,000,000 pounds. This is eight per cent above October a year ago and two per cent above the previous month.

Milk production at 860 pounds per cow showed a significant increase. Production per cow averaged 80 pounds more this past October than a year ago and it was up 20 pounds from September.

Preliminary farm prices for all wolesale milk for October was estimated at $11.20 per hundredweight.

Cotton Crop Suffers From Cold, Wet Weather

AUSTIN–Heavy October rains and cold weather have taken a toll on several crops throughout the state.

Cotton on the Texas Plains suffered, while peanuts in the Cross Timbers area were damaged, too.

Late-maturing cotton was hurt the most by earlier freezes in the Midland area. Most of the damage to the Plains cotton crop came from freezing weather beginning on October 8. Two to three nights of freezing temperatures occurred after that.

Most of the cotton was relatively mature in the High Plains before the first freeze, but since cotton was in various stages of maturity then, production of fibers halted. Some unopened bolls in High Plains fields froze.

Around Lubbock, the rain was expected to cause some discoloration on the open bolls.

Peanuts in the Cross Timbers region were drying in preparation for harvest when the bad weather hit, and it is expected that a good percentage of the crop was lost.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, spring onions are being planted, and there is the possibility that plants were washed out. If rain causes rot, the plants have to be replanted.

RANCHING HAS COME A LONG WAY--A special Bicentennial edition of a livestock statistics book provides a history of the state's ranching industry, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. Texas Historic Livestock Statistics, 1867-1976 is available free by writing Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Management Key For Cattlemen

By Bill McCutchen
Milam Co. Ext. Ag.

When market prices are low, management is the key to staying in business. Some cattlemen have done an outstanding job of management while others over the past couple of years have turned adversity into disaster by disregarding sound herd management.

Calf crop percentage has been poor and cattle losses in winter months has been extremely high. It looks like we are in for a hard winter and there are some things you should do to make your operation as productive as possible. Even though prices are low, culling unproductive cows is sound management.

1. Pregnancy test and sell all open cows.
2. Check eyes for injury, blindness, and tumors.
3. Check teeth for excessive wear and decay--both can cause problems in eating and will result in weight loss or death of the animal.
4. Inspect ears for ticks and treat as needed. Also check for lice and spray if necessary.
5. Treat any cow showing signs of stress from internal parasites.
6. Remove all cows in poor condition since they probably will not conceive next year and may become a casualty in a rough winter.
7. Watch for lameness and any other problem in structural soundness that might limit a cow's ability to forage.
8. Check udders and teats for injuries that may limit the milk when the calf does arrive.
9. Search last year's records for health problems that may limit a cow's future usefullness, calving difficulties, etc.

These are good management techniques to use every year, but they are even more important when they mean the difference between profit and loss. These procedures will result in savings on supplemental feeding and will reduce the competition for available range grasses.

ICA Head Urges USDA To Negotiate Imports

The president of the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas, T. A. Cunningham, called for William E. Simon, chairman of the Economic Policy Board, to consider the policy concerning the negotiations of the 1977 meat quotas.

If the United States continues formal country-by-country import quotas to restrict 1977 meat imports, the USDA is authorized by law to implement formal quotas. However, if it's agreed that voluntary restraint agreements should be again negotiated between the U. S. and foreign exporting countries, the question that is of utmost importance is whether the USDA or State Department should be the chief U. S. representative in these negotiations.

Cunningham urged Simon to allow officials of the United States Department of Agriculture rather than the State Department, to negotiate these voluntary restraint agreements with the countries exporting meat into this country.

Cunningham contends that the USDA is the most suited governmental entity to negotiate effective quotas as "the important data necessary for input in determining allowable amounts of meat imports as specified in the 1964 Meat Importation Act is readily accessable to the officials within the USDA."

If these negotiations are spearheaded by the USDA, agreements could be made to eliminate any attempts of circumvention of meat import quotas from the beginning of 1977. "The cattle industry of this nation can not withstand another situation such as we have experienced in the free trade zone at Mayaquez, Puerto Rico," Cunningham concluded.

Fall Good Time For Soil Test

For agricultural producers having their soil tested, each soil sample should represent up to 40 acres of cropland, says a soil chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

However, a recent survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed that the national average was 144 acres for each sample tested in 1975 and the Texas average was almost 630 acres per sample. "This low rate of sampling in Texas points up the need for more soil testing," says Dr. Charles Welch.

Two to four years is generally often enough to sample for routine soil tests except under high annual fertilization and intensive production, notes Welch.

"Fall is a good time to take soil samples. Sampling early allows adequate time to get results and enables producers to make plans for obtaining fertilizers needed for next year's crop," says the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Many farmers take their own samples. However, in some areas, power sampling equipment is available and reduces the time and effort required to collect samples. Power sampling equipment is especially useful in collecting subsoil samples for nitrate tests.

"For those taking their own samples, a spade or sampling tube, a clean plastic bucket, soil sample boxes, and information sheets are all that are needed," Welch says. "Instructions for sampling as well as additional information on soil testing are available from any county Extension office."

A representative sample should be taken from each field on which information is needed. Problem areas in the field should be sampled separately, Welch adds.

Bicentennial Statistics Available

AUSTIN--A special Bicentennial edition of the livestock statistics book has been published, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

Texas Historic Livestock Statistics, 1867-1976, provides statistical data back to the earliest year for which estimates were made.

The publication provides a history of the growth and development of the ranching industry in Texas.

Copies of the booklet are available free by writing Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

RW Reports Records For United Way

Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works' employees have completed a record United Way campaign with donations and pledges totaling $17,532, or 108 percent of the goal. Last year's AEUW drive netted $15,269.

Co-chairmen Ike Korenek and Jim Jones said they were pleased with the turnout and generosity of Rockdale Works employees. They praised 51 employee solicitors for their active role in generating contributions.

The Rockdale Alcoa Employees United Way (AEUW) drive also exceeded its goal in support of the hometown South Milam campaign, with contributions totaling $13-469.

The AEUW drive supported 11 other area United Way campaigns with donations over $4,000. Drives supported were Austin, $60; Belton, $12; Bremond, $228; Brenham, $96; Bryan, $273; Cameron, $1,096; Georgetown, $5; Marlin, $160; Taylor, $1,782; Temple, $111; and Waco, $108.

Alcoa, the area's largest employer, permits only one in-plant fund-raising campaign a year, the United Way. The company encourages payroll deduction pledges by both salaried and hourly employees.

RIDERS WANTED:
Have 4 horsepower WAGON leaving for Oregon Territory

MUST SHARE Expenses

Moving can be very troublesome. Especially when you're off to settle the wilderness.

The roads were terrible. No restaurants along the way. Why, the trip itself took months.

But, if you were willing, the government would give you land. Land that was bought and paid for with money raised from Americans taking stock in their country.

So thousands had a little hand in every homestead.

Today, millions of Americans are still taking stock in their country by buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because whether you purchase Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan at work, or through the Bond-A-Month Plan where you save, you're putting your money where it counts the most. For you and for your country.

So buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

They'll put your savings on the right road.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4-½% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

FASHION

New Look For Fall

Rugged, athletic looks typify the accessories collection this fall. And choosing from these new exciting items is a fun, inexpensive way to "update your appearance."

For a smashing look, the head is almost always hooded, helmeted or wrapped. For a totally new look, try the English boarding school cap.

The waist is belted or sashed, either with wide, low-slung belts or several narrow aviator straps.

Use scarves to wrap or drape the head, neck, waist, or hips. Big blanket scarves, knitted shawls or mufflers, hung over one shoulder, create the popular serape style.

Low - slung suede and leather drawstring bags can be pouches, pockets or sacks on narrow straps hung around the neck or waist.

Legs are covered and layered with textures and colors in knits, leathers, and cords. Panty hose may be sheer or opaque with interest created by ribbing or space dyeing. Pinestripes, herringbone, and chevron patterns in panty hose complement tailored suits for a menswear look.

Knee-highs may be textured and patterned with the ski wear sweater look, rugby or soccer stripes, or the space-dyed look in bands or argyles and rugged three - dimensional back cable or fisherman knits. Or they may be shiny nylon knits with heat transfer prints, nubby cotton tweeds, metalics, or brushed mohair looks.

Whatever the style, the knee-highs are often cuffed over midcalf or knee-high boots. Shoes take on a hearty look, and some are sporting square heels.

Matte wood jewelry with metal trim, twisted gold or silver satin ropes, and western gear add the finishing touches for fall fashions.

Hours for the sale are from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursday and from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Boy Scout Troup Camp At Radtke Farm

Houston Boy Scout Troup #35, Sam Houston area council was accompanied by Scout Master, Thomas Wehmeyer and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kentner, Mr. and Mrs. Billy F. Radtke, Leslie Karisch, Mr. Cortes and Mr. Winkleman.

They enjoyed beautiful weather Saturday and Sunday.

The boys achieved several merit badges and also enjoyed digging and finding Indian head arrows.

The wives and mothers stayed at the Radtke camp house and enjoyed fishing.

BUCKHOLTS HOMECOMING QUEEN was honored recently at one of the Badger games. She is Laura Kuzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kuzel of Buckholts. Laura is a senior at Buckholts High School.

Freezing Small Game And Game Birds

Freezing small game and game birds - with the opening of quail and deer season, and many mighty hunters out in the fields, our thoughts turn to ways of preserving this harvest. If the fruits of your hunter's labor are too many to cook at once, freezing is a good method of preserving them.

This is the season for various game birds, such as ducks, quail, geese, dove, turkey, pheasant, and woodcock. Also, small game such as squirrels, rabbits, opossum, and raccoons can be frozen for later use.

First step is to thoroughly clean them and cook before freezing. Wrap each bird or animal individually in a moisture - vapor - proof freezing paper, using the drugstore wrap.

For this wrapping method, place, the game in the center of the paper. Bring the two sides of the paper evenly together at the top. Make a drugstore fold by turning the paper down toward the meat in a one-half inch fold. Continue folding tightly and snugly against the meat. Press the fold flat against the meat and make a double fold in each end of the wrapping. Fold these ends under the package to make a tighter wrap, fold the ends over and seal with freezer tape.

Label all packages with the cut of meat and the date. The same procedure should be used in wrapping big game, such as venison.

Freeze small game immediately after packaging. Keep the meat at 0 degrees F. or lower until it is used. Quality meat, correctly wrapped in moisture - vapor - proof freezing paper will keep frozen at this temperature for six months to a year, except for the organ meats such as heart and liver, shich should be used within six months.

When thawing game, do so in the refrigerator. Allow five hours thawing time per pound.

Sweet potatoes are best if they taper at both ends.

Winnie The Pooh Scores Written By Local Woman

Mrs. Chris Humphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark of Cameron, presented her original score for familiar A. A. Milken stories at a meeting of the Pleasure and Profit Club Friday at Cameron Public Library.

It was a combination of Cameron talents. Maurina Corley sang the Winnie the Pooh lyrics accompanied by Mrs. Humphrey at the piano and joined by the composer's sister, flutist Cindy Clark.

Mrs. Humphrey, mother of two small children and former English Literature major at the University of Texas, said the Milken stories just seemed perfect to set to music. The scores used Friday were hand written, but an audition taping session is scheduled this fall with copywrites and possible publication following.

Mrs. Humphrey has been serious about music most of her life. She first took piano lessons from Mrs. Doug Phippils in Thorndale and later studied under Mrs. C. W. Bradbury and Mrs. Francis Cox in Cameron. She was solo bassonist with the Yoe High Band and first chair bassoonist with the Central Texas Symphony during her high school years. She studied organ under Charles Matthews in Temple and was awarded a music scholarship to the University of Texas.

The Winnie The Pooh scores are not her first compositions. She has been inspired by many Bible verses which she has set to music. Chris says she feels God speaks to her through music. She was organist for St. Pauls Presbyterian Church in Austin and her compositions are now part of the services for St. Mathews Episcopal Church in Houston.

But, as with many talented people, music is not her "only thing." Her children's stories have been published in "Baby Talk" magazine and a children's book is ready for publication awaiting illustrations.

THE FIRST DOLLAR EARNED

Today Donald arrived. Not at the zenith of success. Just at the threshold of opportunity. He made his first dollar . . . and put it where it will keep on working for his future.

Up to now Donald has depended on an allowance. That means living on money given. Now Donald will be moving toward financial independence. That means living on what you have earned.

Spiritually we arrive the same way. Our parents, if they are wise and caring parents, give us faith. They bring us to church. They encourage our Christian growth. They set moral standards in an atmosphere of religious conviction.

On the day that we do arrive . . . we begin providing for our spiritual needs voluntarily! Only then are we ready to be spiritually independent. That means living by the faith you have gained.

Ultimately we have to make our own decisions about our principles and convictions. There is no substitute for early religious training in preparing for that day.

VARSITY BASKETBALL Coach Ken Poole goes drills, preparing the Yoemen for their opening game of the 1976 season.

Pre-Season Workouts Begin

Yoemen varsity basketball Coach Kenneth Poole seemed cautiously optimistic about the 1976 season for the Yoemen. Poole said, "I'm really pleased with the attitude and eagerness of the team this year. Although we are a young team and don't have a lot of the experience that we need, the team seems real enthusiastic.

The Yoemen have one returning letterman this season, Greg Kelly, a 5'5" sophomore.

"It's hard to predict the season right now," Poole said. "We will be faced with some tough district competition this season, with almost every team in the district having a good nucleus of players returning." Poole cited three teams as being the district toughs--Hearne, Rockdale, and Elgin--stating that these three teams had the most experience overall.

Poole regards the pre-season as a time of rebuilding in an effort to prepare for the district competition.

As in any competition, winning is important, but the experience gained from the pre-season will be a great asset to the Yoemen, win or lose.

The pre-season will be tough, with the Yoemen opening against Marlin--a tough 3A contender who defeated the Yoemen last season. At any rate, the Yoemen fans will be in for a surprise as they flood the area's gyms to watch the Cameron Yoemen basketballers compete for the 1976 season title.

Rockdale Advances To Regional

The Rockdale Tigers defeated the Llano Yellowjackets in Bi-District action and have won the right to represent the district 23AA in Regional action Friday night. The Tigers will meet the West Trojans in Baylor Stadium. The kick-off time for the game is set for 8 p.m.

The Tigers' offense was the spark that set the fire in the last minute of their bi-district playoff, and the Tigers will rely on that offense once again as they have made few changes in their starters for the regional bout. Quarterback Scott Sparks will again lead the offensive attack in hopes of advacing the Tigers to the quarterfinals. Halfback Don Wesley will be toting the ball for the Tigers. He is 70 yards shy of 1000 yards for the season. Defensively, the Tigers will be led by left halfback Randy Morgan and right linebacker Jack Thomson, who have both had an outstanding season thus far.

The Tigers will have their work cut out for them as they will meet one of the larger teams they have faced this season. A defensive standoff with little scoring is expected. At any rate, the Tigers will be at the ready as they continue their state-bound journey.

The Peter-Paul Principle Applies In Tax Methods

Who pays what share of the taxes has taken on a new urgency since the taxing of Peter to pay Paul has started to lose some of its political appeal.

The middle income taxpayer has come to realize that he is paying out as much or more than he receives and, in any event, believes he is paying out more than he can afford.

A recent newspaper headline noted: "Tax Peter to Pay Paul? No (too many Pauls)."

Another article, headed "Middle Income Group Pays Most of the Taxes," quoted the Internal Revenue Service as reporting that taxpayers in the $10,000 to $30,000 category filed 39% of the income tax returns and paid 56% of the taxes collected.

Since 1965, social welfare expenditures by all levels of government in the United States have more than tripled, from $77 billion to $287 billion in 1975. With such huge transfers of income to programs largely aimed to aid the poor, no wonder people are beginning to wonder what their tax payments are in relation to their neighbors and fellow workers.

Several recent events have underscored the underlying debate over who pays what in taxes.

Inflation, for one. For several years now inflation has been pushing wage and salary earners into higher tax brackets. Despite increased earnings, which may or may not keep pace with the cost of living, taxpayers end up paying out a larger proportion of their income in taxes.

The summer-long debate over a new federal revenue measure also had deep Peter-to-Paul overtones, particularly the revision in laws which will add $1 billion in new taxes on the wealthy.

But the most public attention probably was generated by the political campaign and the nationally televised Presidential Debates, when concerned for the middle income taxpayer zoomed as it became general knowledge there were so many of them.

Most of the attention has, however, been focused on income and general revenue taxes. Little noticed in all the discussion is an important increase in taxes which will go into effect Jan. 1, 1977, and will give another Peter - to - Paul tilt to the tax system, amounting to upwards of $2.3 billion a year.

Beginning with the first paycheck of the new years, the taxable wage base for Social Security will increase from the present $15,300 to $16-500. Thus, the maximum tax payment will go up to $965.25 or $70.20 a year. The tax goes up even though the rate of the tax stays the same.

What does this mean for Peter?

Some 19 million Americans --not all of the 80-million plus who are working--will be paying higher taxes; some 16 million of them will be paying at least $70.20 more a year because they earn at least $16,500.

And business, which frequently is a target of the tax-the-rich advocates, will get socked for $1.1 billion as well, since employers must match the tax increase paid by employees.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, however, relates that the news is not at all bad.

The "good" news, says the Chamber newsletter, Washington Report, is that as of the end of 1974 there were some 8,300 of the 30 million persons receiving benefits who were 100 years old or older and had been collecting benefits for 35 years or

"The moral of this story," the Chamber adds, "is that you should firmly resolve to live to be a centenarian."

It's called beating the system.

Texas Gas Prices Show Slight Dip

Texans taking to the highways during the Thanksgiving weekend will find gasoline less expensive than it was during the Labor Day Weekend, but a significant number of service stations will be closed on Thanksgiving Day and the following Sunday.

A survey of 266 service stations conducted by the American Automobile Association revealed average prices for gasoline of 56.9 cents a gallon for regular, 59.0 for unleaded, and 60.7 for premium. Corresponding prices in early September were 57.4 cents for regular, 59.4 for unleaded, and 61.1 for premium.

Thirty-two percent of the service station operators contacted in the survey said they would be closed on Thanksgiving Day, and 24 percent will be closed the following Sunday. But motorists should have few problems finding an open station on these days, and almost all the operators said they will be open for business as usual on Friday and Saturday of the holiday weekend.

Average prices for regular gasoline in Texas ranged from 53.6 cents a gallon in Waco to 63.9 in Ozona, according to the survey.

Shorter Work Week Predicted

While the four-day work week may be a few years off, the 4 1/2 - day work week is already here, as a practical matter.

According to a new study of employe benefits by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, paid days off in 1975 cost U. S. employers more than 10% of payroll. On the basis of 260 work days a year, these costs indicate an average of 26 days off a year in vacations, paid holidays, sick leaves, and other special time off, such as for jury duty.

Presto, the 4 1/2-day week.

The recent strike settlement of the Ford Motor Co. in the opinion of many observers, is another step toward a four-day week. The previous contract provided for 32 1/2 days off with pay; the new contract specified 13 additional paid days off plus other days off, depending on individual circumstances, such as seniority.

The Chamber study, Employee Benefits 1975, also points out that in a cross section of 761 companies employee benefits accounted for approximately 35% of payroll, or nearly $4,000 a year per employee.

The benefits include employer payments for pensions, insurance, social security taxes, etc., in addition to paid days off.

Fringe benefits, as they once were known not only enhance workers' well-being, as the Chamber points out; they also add substantial costs to the expense of doing business. These costs ultimately must be borne by the public.

All concerned--the public, business, and labor unions--will be the losers to inflation, if these additional costs are not matched or offset by gains in productivity through new technology and elimination of costly work practices and absenteeism and other drags on productivity.
